

1. A task analysis is:
 - b. A process of breaking a complex skill into smaller, more manageable units that are taught sequentially.
2. What is a behavior chain?
 - a. A teaching procedure that links various simple responses together to make a more complex behavior.
3. Which of the following are types of behavior chains?
 - d. Forward, Backward, Total Task Presentation.
4. What is forward chaining?
 - c. The method for teaching skills in their naturally occurring order.
5. What is backward chaining?
 - b. Teaching a skill starting with the last step and moving backward.
6. What is total task presentation?
 - a. Teaching all skills identified in the task analysis at the same time.